

“The name’s Lillyshine. I’m about a season old and a house cat-or was. The world’s a big place but it ever so happened that on the other side of my backyard fence is the Forest of Shadows. Not the best name in the world but, it describes it pretty well. My mother-cat used to tell me stories of warrior cats that lived in the forest, I was well warned never to go into the shadows of the trees. Rumor has it, these ‘warriors’ of steel show no mercy-to anyone. We’ve all heard the stories and rumors surrounding the forest, it’s never good. Well, how should I say this? When I was about 6 moons old, I decided to put the rumors to the test-I entered the forest. The forest actually quite surprised me
